CHORUS

Wrink-les from years of wor - ry, Wrink-les from years of pain, Wrink-les from care and sor - row, And hopes that were all in vain, Wrink-les from sac - ri - fi - ces

When sighs and tears have left their sign, Oh, I wish that I had never been half so bad, to that old white-haired moth-er of mine.

I've been a dream-er of rich-ess and love, And my dream-ers they have Just like an old-er from their-ess di-ness, That the gates of my yes-er come true, But the love I have sigh-ed for And heart you have given, All the world I would give, dear, if would I have tried this, I see dear, when I look at you—I could feel like, dear, To love and to call you my own—

I sat and wait-ed the whole day long, With-ing that I could see, — My One but the know-ers and feel in love, Then-ness of miles from home, — I work-er and did the best job I had, They're wait-ing for me, — I wish I was back to the old-fashioned shack, Why did I ever leave, —

(I tell the world that I love them, and when I'll be back there I know My pals are wait-ing for me, I know the love-ly for I love them so —

Musical by
C. G. KATNARD

Andante con espressione

There's a sunshine that bright-ens my day, It's the sun-shine that you have with You the sun-shine that bright-ens my day, It's the sun-shine that you have with

It brings the dawn, that drowsy-ly clouds on, And makes the whole world so near
It brings the dawn, that drowsy-ly clouds on, And makes the whole world so near

You have the heart, you have the heart, you have the heart, you have the heart
